Black dry shampoo

The reviewer
Sadiya Ansari,
Associate Editor

The promise

To cover up roots between colourings and restyle limp, second-day hair—with no white residue.

The verdict

Dry shampoo that won't make me look like I have more greys than I already do? Life-changing. Compared with other brands I've tried, this worked really well to absorb oil.

Bottom line

The black dry shampoo can transfer onto your hands (or onto the collar of a white blouse) if you run your fingers through your hair throughout the day. So either avoid wearing white clothes or stop playing with your hair.

AG Hair Jet Black Dry Shampoo, $28.

Conscious beauty

The biggest trend in beauty is to focus not on what's in the product but rather on what's left out. These cosmetics brands are all about simple, quality ingredients that work wonders

"I really believe in this mission: that women deserve a product that makes them feel beautiful, that really works and that's non-toxic."
—Gwyneth Paltrow, Juice Beauty's creative director, makeup
